Wellness Center Renovations Project Update

Coming in October:

- Renovation work will start at the main entrance
- Fitness equipment will be moved back to fitness floor
- A planned electrical shut down toward the end of the month
- Demolition will begin in the old racquetball room
- The women's locker room will close for renovation

It's hard to believe we're already six months into the Wellness Center renovation! In the last couple weeks, the men's locker room reached a point where we were able to open most of it up for public use. The men's sauna and steam room are currently still under construction. In October, Walker Construction will begin work in the women's locker room and closed to the public for demolition starting Friday, October 3rd. The family locker room near Wellbriety will be reserved for only women as a temporary shower space during this time.

If you've been down to the Wellness Center recently you may have noticed new work has started at the main entrance. Over the coming weeks the main entrance will be reduced to a single door while some structural pieces of the building are being restructured. This is all part of relocating our front desk to the main entrance of the building and completing work on our new conference rooms.

Early this month, we will move fitness equipment around as we finish up renovations on the fitness floor. Fitness equipment will move out of the racquetball area so that work can begin in our new HIIT room. If you need any help locating your favorite piece of equipment in the meantime, please reach out to any of our Wellness Center staff.

We have a planned power shutdown coming at the end of October so some of the electrical components of the building can be replaced. This shutdown will begin on October 24th and we hope to be fully operational again by Wednesday, October 29th. Please watch our website and Facebook page for updates!
